BIOGRAPHY

Aislinn M. Koch is admitted to practice law in New Jersey and practices a variety of family law matters.

Before joining Shapiro Croland, Aislinn clerked for the Honorable Terry Paul Bottinelli, J.S.C. in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Family Part. During her clerkship, she additionally became a certified court mediator and conducted mediations for family disputes, small claims, and landlord-tenant matters.

Aislinn received her B.F.A. in Dance, Performance, and Choreography and B.A. in Strategic Communications from Elon University. She then went on to procure her J.D. from Seton Hall University School of Law. While pursuing her degree, Aislinn was a member of the Civil Litigation Clinic and the Legislative Law Journal, where her note Spoiler Alert!: How Posting Predictive Spoilers about Television Shows is Copyright Infringement was published.
